

Complaints to the BBC: September 2011

The BBC answered just over 18,000 complaints from the audience in September 2011. These ranged from a small number of complaints about alleged breaches of editorial guidelines through to a much larger collection of views about programme content and services.